cop. 2Administrative Bulletin

SUBJECT: Award of Borrowers' Construction Contracts

1. The construction of electric properties and related work is the responsibility of a borrower as the owner and manager of its system. The Rural Electrification Administration, however, as the agency charged with responsibility for carrying out the Federal rural electrification program, is responsible for the proper expenditure of Government funds made available pursuant to the Rural Electrification Act and has the further responsibility as mortgages to assure itself that the physical properties that serve as security for loans are properly and adequately constructed.
2. It shall be the policy of the Administration to require a borrower, except with the specific approval of the Administrator, to award each construction contract to the lowest responsible bidder, unless all bids are rejected or unless the Administrator shall approve the award of the contract to another responsible bidder upon a showing by the borrower that the award of the contract to such bidder is in the best interests of the borrower.
3. The award of a contract shall not be approved if the facts indicate that the bidder has an interest conflicting with that of the borrower.
4. This Bulletin supersedes all other existing instructions in conflict with the provisions of this Bulletin.

Administrative Bulletin

SUBJECT: Use of the Funds of Borrowers for Education Purposes

Proper and efficient management is the responsibility of borrowers as owners and managers of their systems, and it is assumed that as they acquire experience they will become progressively more efficient in the proper use of all tools of management of which an educational program is one. However, in the public interest and in representing the government as mortgagee, it is the responsibility of the agency (including the Rural Electrification Division of the Office of the Solicitor) to offer borrowers guidance, and on occasion expert assistance, with respect to management of their systems.

A borrower should, unless restricted by its articles of incorporation or otherwise by law, expend a reasonable and proper amount of money from its operating revenues for the education of its members in cooperative principles and the effective use of electric energy and other services that are made available by the borrower. Such education should be planned, conducted and supervised by its Board, its manager, or a committee composed of its members, serving without compensation for such purpose; and in no event should a borrower transfer any of its responsibilities to a person or institution the objectives of which are not coextensive or in accord with those of the borrower. To be reasonable and proper such expenditure should not be such as to impair or tend to impair the financial status and the effective and efficient management of the system. Nothing contained in this statement of policy should be interpreted as preventing or restraining a borrower from collaborating with other persons or institutions with respect to its educational program, or from using the services of skilled individuals in planning or conducting such program.
